"An entirely African-owned and African-led network of agricultural policy research centers, generating high-quality evidence and providing policy guidance in support of agricultural development, food and nutrition security, and livelihoods resilience."

ANAPRI FACT SHEET

What is ANAPRI?

Africa Network of Agricultural Policy Research Institutes (ANAPRI) is a collaborative network comprising research institutions across Africa dedicated to advancing evidence-based agricultural policy. With centers spanning 15 countries and totaling 16 in number, ANAPRI conducts rigorous research and analysis to tackle critical challenges in agricultural development, including market dynamics, trade policies, and sustainable practices. By promoting knowledge exchange and collaboration among its members, ANAPRI generates valuable insights to guide policy decisions at national, regional, and continental levels.

Our VISION

"To be a dynamic Pan-African network of universally recognized national agricultural policy research institutes that generate relevant and high-quality evidence, to guide and inform effective policy decisions that promote sustainable solutions across the continent".

Our MISSION

"To play an active role in transforming Africa's agricultural sector by developing the capacity of national agricultural policy research institutes in Africa, strengthening and nurturing dynamic collaboration toward providing objective and innovative policy advice to national, regional and continental level stakeholders, through effective outreach".

Our OBJECTIVE

To generate evidence through high-quality research in support of national, regional, and continental policy reform.

How does ANAPRI achieve this Objective?

By sharing data, analytics, approaches, methods, and tools among its network members, as well as centre to centre trainings, which we call “Africa to Africa learning”. ANAPRI has various outreach tools used too communicate its activities and promote its products among stakeholders.

Outreach and Communication

ANAPRI hosts an annual stakeholders conference among its outreach activities. The 11th Conference will be held in Dakar, Senegal on 26th - 28th November, 2024. We also host webinars, side events and lots more. Other outreach tools include, policy briefs, reports, journal publications, LinkedIn, Facebook, X (Twitter),other partners events, print and electronic media etc.
